Half of the United States population may be at risk of misunderstanding their doctor’s instruction, leading to more medical errors, excess hospitalizations and poor health outcomes due to low health literacy. This presentation will help participants to understand the problem, identify the barriers faced by both patients and clinicians, and identify strategies to enhance health literacy and understanding.