

Rebecca Hernandez, PhD

Director, Center for Intercultural Teaching and Learning

Assistant Professor of Nursing at Goshen College in Indiana

Topic: A Model for Community College Partnerships in Addressing the Educational Needs of Latino Students in Indiana: The Center for Intercultural Teaching and Learning (CITL)

Dr. Hernandez's talk will focus on the Center for Intercultural Teaching and Learning (<http://citl.goshen.edu/>) in Goshen, Indiana. The Center's mission is to increase diversity in higher education. They are working to learn how to increase educational access for Latino students in the Midwest.. Also how to extend these findings to better enroll and retain other students of color. Dr. Hernandez will also share some research results related to what works-- and what barriers families are facing.

Date: Wednesday, April 29, 2009

Time: Noon to 1 p.m. Please bring a brown bag lunch and join us.

Location: S455 School of Nursing

