

Universal Values? Not According to the Facts!

Peter M. Gardner, Emeritus Professor,
Department of Anthropology
Wednesday, September 16, 2009
12:00-1:00 PM
Memorial Union, S206

More than a century of scientific research reveals that key values having to do with gender, religion, and sexual morality vary greatly from culture to culture. Claims that humans have “universal values” are simply uninformed. And, to promote such values would be to attack humanity’s stock of accumulated wisdom.

Diversity in Action: Bridging Research and Practice

A research-based brown bag series for faculty, staff and students. Delve into diversity-related research at Mizzou through this one hour scholarly presentation and Q&A session.

Sponsored by the Chancellor's Diversity Initiative, S303 Memorial Union, 573.882.5838, <http://diversity.missouri.edu>